

October 12, 1979

Published on Fidel soldado de las ideas (<http://www.fidelcastro.cu>)

“The history of international trade has shown that development is the most dynamic factor of world commerce. The greatest part of commerce in our day and age is carried out between fully industrialized countries. We can be certain that while industrialization and progress spreads more and more in the world, so too will trade exchanges grow and this is beneficial for everyone.”

Riferimento al testo originale: Speech delivered at the 34th Session of the United Nations General Assembly, in New York City, October 12, 1979

Source URL: <http://www.fidelcastro.cu/it/node/105180>